

MOTTA CAMASTRA

The village of Motta Camastra is located upon a rocky ridge of sandstone rocks perched at 450 meters above sea level and it dominates the views of the Valle dell'Alcantara.

This territory had been inhabited by Phoenician settlements and by Greco-Roman and Arabic-Norman denominations.

The layout and the very siting of the build up area in itself already presents an attractive and charming landscape . Climbing up along the road which leads up to Motta Camastra, the landscape becomes ever more beautiful and charming, until you suddenly find yourself in front of the village, immortalised in the past in some shots of the blockbuster film il Padrino di Francis Ford Coppola.
